DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(4) because reference characters "2" and "5" have both been used to designate second part (page 6, line 3; page 7, line 4). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.
3. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(4) because reference character "41" has been used to designate both printed circuit board (page 10, line 3) and photodiode (page 11, line 1). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Art Unit: 3726

5. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 3, line 5, "the bridge" lacks antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

7. Claims 1,2,4-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by EP0638895.

'895 discloses an actuator 13 (Fig. 2b; col. 5, lines 43-53) provided with two parts 15, 17 which extended in a main plane and three bridges 19, 21, 23 that interconnect the two parts, which three bridges can each be shortened in a shortening direction extending parallel to the main plane through local heating of bridges and subsequent cooling down, while the two parts are rotatable relative to one another about an axis of rotation extending substantially perpendicularly to the main plane through shortening of at least one of the three bridges and wherein the shortening directions of the three bridges are mutually substantially parallel (col. 3, lines 6-27; Fig. 4), and the two parts of the actuators are rotated relative to one (another) by an alternative shortening of two mutually adjoining bridges of the three bridges (page 5, lines 2-15; col. 7, lines 18-29).

Art Unit: 3726

Regarding Claims 4 - 7 , '895 teaches : a width of the bridges is substantially smaller than twice (/at most equal to) a spot diameter of a laser beam used or designed to be used for shortening the bridge; a distance present between the bridges and the width of the bridges have same order of magnitude; and a distance between the bridges is substantially greater than the width of bridges. (col. 8, lines 42-55).

Regarding Claim 8, insofar as understood, 895 teaches the actuator is further provided with a coupling member 89 which is fastened one of the two parts of a actuator at a distance from the bridges (col. 8, lines 7-11).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claims 9 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EPO638895 in view of Mizuno et al. (U.S. Patent 5,600,515).

'895 teach the limitations as claimed above with the exception of the coupling member comprises a blade spring 3 (Figs. 1c and 4) which extends substantially parallel to the displacement direction and substantially perpendicular to the main plane.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to add a blade spring 3 (Figs. 1c and 4) which extends substantially parallel to the displacement direction and substantially perpendicular to the main plane, as taught by Mizuno et al. on the coupling member of '895 so as to the hook part 4b is in contact with rigid part 2c, accordingly the slider part 2a is not so shifted downward with no external force.
